Impressions from the first focus group

ALCER Spain organized a focus group with patients with chronic kidney disease and their relatives. The partners of the project were panelists of discussion. Personal and social problems of kidney patients and their relatives were discussed in the focus group. It was a mind-blowing session with the insight of reality.

Greece's first training activity to share good practices is in September in Aegina Island!

This Project aims to develop solutions to the problems of this target group, which will be a valuable contribution within the European Union programs.

Despite the pandemic conditions, the Pro-CKD project continues to move forward. The project, which will gain more mobility in the coming autumn and it has started to contribute among target audience already!
